

Welcome to Warp Walkers

Warp Walkers is a blog about tabletop roleplaying. I've been gaming for close to 15 years, and have experience with a variety of game systems, although my preferred game of choice is Dungeons and Dragons 3.5, with some house rule modifications.

This blog will be a place for me to share helpful articles, tips and resources I've created for GMs and players, content I've developed for my own games, and neat gaming-related things I've come across. The plan is to release new posts on the blog regularly throughout the week.